

Life and Social Skills

ShowMe Images are a great resource for anyone who needs to communicate clearly with children. They can help you communicate more effectively with children who need visual supports, have special needs, have intellectual disability, are on the autism spectrum or speak English as an additional language. The image set is representative of our contemporary Australian community and includes a diverse range of people.

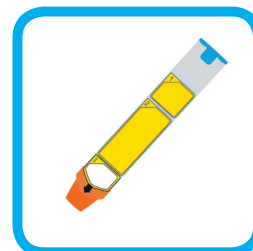

The Life and Social Skills set contains images of:

- social skills like apologising, joining in and being friends
- health and hygiene, including items like an EpiPen and head lice shampoo
- people, including parents, teachers, cultural icons and a range of professions
- clothing
- feelings
- toileting.

This set will help you to:

- create inclusive home, therapy, classroom and early learning settings
- support positive behaviour
- explain transitions from one activity to another
- help kids get ready for their day
- help kids understand their emotions and behaviours
- allow you to easily create visual schedules for daily routines.

This set also contains free templates to get you started.
